STATE NEWS.

Cumberland.

John H. Gray, the man arrested for stealing a team from Lord's livery stable, Portland, made confession, Thursday, and says he left the horse and carriage in Bucksport. Mr. Lord has gone there to look for them.

The British steamer Oregon, of the Dominion Line, Capt. H. C. Williams, sailed from Portland, Thursday afternoon, for Liverpool. Her cargo consisted of 9,320 bushels of peas, 41,577 bushels of corn, 310,000 pounds of bacon, 1,600 pounds of tongue, 15,250 pounds of lard, 48,000 pounds of beef, 91,530 pounds of pork, 10,100 pounds of cotton, 3,215 barrels of apples. Her Canada cargo consisted of 2,582 bushels of peas, 178,920 pounds of cheese, 271,360 pounds of flour, 4,873 maple blocks, 42 barrels of cider, 1,521 ash shafts, 200 bales of feathers, 225 bags of copper, 1,711 barrels of apples, 5,714 pieces of deals, and a large miscellaneous cargo. The total valuation is $141,325.

L. B. Reed and B. W. Meader, two stone cutters, were driving to their work in Portland, from their homes in Deering, Thursday morning, and when about to cross the tracks of the Portland & Rochester road, at the foot of Parris street, they saw a locomotive coming along. They waited until the engine had gone by and then started across the track. A passenger car which had been thrown by the locomotive, struck the team. The two men jumped for the car and steadied a hold. They escaped death by their strong arms, for had they not been strong they would have fallen beneath the wheels. The car was stopped after it had run fifty feet or more. The men were only slightly injured but the horse was killed and the carriage ground to splinters. There was no flagman there, and the road narrowly escaped a costly bill.

Kennebec.

Mr. Frank R. Partridge, of Augusta, the newly appointed commissioner of pharmacy, was the first candidate to pass an examination under the law establishing a pharmacy commission. He also received the first rank as a registered apothecary.

Prof. Julian D. Taylor, of Colby, who was lately called to St. Louis to assist in the settlement of the estate of a wealthy uncle, returned Wednesday. The estate left amounted to about $60,000. It is rumored that the Colby professor's share will be about $15,000. As is natural, Prof. Taylor seems to be in excellent spirits since his arrival in town.

Says the Maine Farmer: There was brought to our office the other day, a Brown Leghorn hen, seventeen years old, owned by Jere Glidden, of Cushnoc Heights. It is sleek and healthful, showing none of the marks of old age, has lain eggs regularly every year, and never fell into the vicious habit of setting. We find nothing reprehensible about that biddy.

Calvin Hamlin, the veteran stage driver, died at his home near China and Vassalboro Camp Ground, March 20th. He used to carry the mail from Augusta to Bangor before the iron track was laid. In those days mail had to go through Sundays as well as week days, and there was quite a penalty attached if for any reason it failed to go through. Mr. Hamlin during one year which he worked for the stage company, drove over the road a distance of sixty-five miles, three hundred and sixty-five times. He also made the quickest time from Bangor to Augusta that was ever made.

Knox.

The small dwelling-house, shed and outbuildings of D. P. Andrews at West Camden, occupied by Frank Eugene Chadwick, was burned Wednesday morning. The buildings were valued at about $1,000 and partly insured. The firemen responded promptly, and with three horses attached to their engine, they drew the old tub up the two-mile hill in less than one-half hour from the time the man left the burning building to give the alarm.

Lincoln.

A woman was found dead, Thursday morning, in a wood chopper's camp a few miles from Waldoboro, where she had given birth to a child. The woman who was twenty-two years of age, had lived in this hut with her father for about two years. The father claimed that he left her well at 10.30 and returned at 12.30 and found her dead. The Kennebec Journal says Dr. Brickett of Augusta, assisted by Dr. Sanborn, made the autopsy, Thursday, and found that death resulted from hemorrhage caused by abortion. The father is under arrest.

Sagadahoc.

The Bath Times says Mr. I. H. Snow, a Brunswick stable keeper, while on his way home from Bath, Wednesday night, was stopped in the woods just below the railroad track at Cook's Corner, by two men who tried to make Mr. Snow "stand and deliver." Mr. Snow had over $100 and a valuable gold watch on his person. His first thought was to jump and run for the woods and leave his team; he did so and landed in a ditch and put for the woods; two shots were fired at him but neither hit him. Mr. Snow waited in the woods and walked home. His team was found next morning by Mr. Parent in his yard on Union Street.

Wales.

Mr. Joseph Williamson, the accomplished local reporter of the Kennebec Journal, will enter his father's office, at Belfast, as a law student next June.

There was a serious accident at the Patcher school house, Belfast, the other day while a company was rehearsing for a drama. In one of the acts a lady had to discharge a loaded pistol. In rehearsing, the pistol was accidentally discharged in the face of Miss Redman, daughter of Mr. Samuel Redman. The powder lodged in the lips and chin of the young lady, making a bad wound, and what is worse, the marks of the powder will disfigure her face.

Mr. C. S. Marston, 49 Summer street, Boston, a large manufacturer of clothing, has leased H. O. Dodge's factory, and will move his large business from Boston to Belfast. The lease has been made and dated from the first day of April, so that the transfer will be made at once. Mr. Marston is a large dealer and keeps a number of salesmen on the road. He will manufacture all kinds of clothing, from vests to overcoats. For one item he will manufacture three thousand pairs of pants weekly. One hundred people will be given employment at the factory, besides the many hundreds all over Waldo county. Belfast is to be made the headquarters, and the handling goes through Mr. Marston says he will have a Boston office. He will bring with him experienced cutters and perhaps some other skilled labor, but the majority of the help will come from Athens.

Washington.

The town of Addison at its meeting this spring, voted to allow the collector a compensation of three per cent., with the understanding that unless he shall exhibit a clean book at the annual meeting of 1890, he shall receive no remuneration for bills collected.

During a drunken brawl at Danforth, Wednesday night, William Deering stabbed Mansfield Morey in the abdomen while the latter was endeavoring to eject Deering from the Foss house. Deering was arrested but discharged Tuesday morning.

The body of Mamie Myers, who with her mother was drowned last September in Quoddy River, between Eastport and Campobello, was found on the beach on Fall's Island at the mouth of Cobscook river, recently. The body was disfigured, the head, feet and hands being gone, says the Eastport Sentinel.

Calais is said by authorities on electric light to have as perfect a system as there is in New England. With the exception of only half an hour, the light has been excellent and constant since the dynamos started the first of last September. Moreover, the company has been liberal in exceeding their contract both as to hours and in lighting up Sunday nights, when there was no moon.

Short Cuts.

Four Harvard students paid $20 in a justice's court for participating in a cock fight.

The hercle coaches in general use in many parts of this country have just been introduced in London.

Mrs. Arachie Rives-Chanler's husband has returned from Europe and joined her in Washington. They will leave for Paris about the first of May.

The saw is largely used now instead of the axe in bringing down the giant redwoods in California. The tree is sawed partly through and then is forced over by wedges.

Buffalo Bill will leave this country for Paris in a few weeks with his famous band of cowboys and redskins. He will camp for the summer near the great exposition.

Lieutenant Carson, who was slightly wounded in the brush between the regulars and the Oklahoma boomers, is a son of Major John Carson, the famous Washington correspondent.

A Hoxie, Kan., justice of the peace named Nixon has just distinguished himself by umpiring a bare-knuckle fight between two muscular lawyers of the town, adjourning court for the purpose.

A man in Falls township, Ohio, has bought a monument, coffin and shroud for himself, and has paid for having his grave dug. He boasts that he has in his possession receipts for all his funeral expenses.

The four new stars will not be added to the flag until the Fourth of July, 1890. Up to that time the correct number will be thirty-eight, and the enthusiastic citizens who put four more in the field are simply a year and more too previous.

The infusion commonly used to wrap Neufchatel cheese, chewing gum, various kinds of candy, and all kinds of chewing tobacco, is said to be dangerous on account of the lead in it. Its use for wrapping articles of food has been forbidden in France.

Mail carriers in Morocco are said to avoid risk of losing their places by oversleeping by tying a string on one foot and setting the end of it on fire before they go to sleep. The string they know from experience, will burn so long, and when the fire reaches their foot it is time for them to get up.

A Michigan lumberman has adopted the use of pine roots as fuel for his hobby. He has the roots cut up into 18-inch lengths, and uses them in grates instead of soft coal, to which he declared, they are superior. Our New England grandfathers used them a hundred years ago under the name of pitch-wood.

The class of '79, Princeton, decided some time ago to place in the college chapel a mural statue of Dr. McCosh. The work is now rapidly approaching completion. Dr. McCosh lately gave the sculptor one of the final sittings, and the relief will be ready for presentation at next commencement. The artist is St. Gaudens.

A fourteen-year-old Hungarian girl landed at Castle Garden last Friday. She had never seen a negro, and while sitting in the place was approached by the densely colored bootblack of the place. She was nearly thrown into fits, raised her hands in horror and declared that she had seen the devil. Matters were explained to her, but she kept a wide distance from the bootblack during her stay in the Garden.

The usual thickness of veneers for furniture is from one-eighth to one-fortieth of an inch, but as curiosity they are cut as thin as 100 to an inch. Burls, used in making veneers with remarkable eccentricities of grain, are excrescences that grow upon various trees, such as the walnut, rosewood, mahogany, oak and ash. They weigh from 1,000 to 6,000 pounds, and the largest and best come from Persia and Circassia, and cost in the rough from fifteen to forty cents a pound.

The recent occurrence in a suburban town of a girl's cheek being bitten off by a savage mastiff suggests that it would be well to adopt in this country a regulation of the authorities of Aix-la-Chapelle concerning dogs. It requires that all St. Bernards, Newfoundlands, Great Danes, &c., shall be led when taken out to exercise, the lead to be not more than half a yard long, and that their owners shall not take them into parks, cars, or other public places.

A floating theatre, to sail upon the river Volga, has been planned in Russia. The structure will contain not only the stage, the orchestra, the green room, the treasurer's office and the manager's sanctum, but the company will have their bedrooms on board, and will live altogether, if not under the same roof, at least over the same keel. The floating theatre will probably cost less than if it were stone built, and the management will certainly escape the costly item of rent.

In a recent lecture upon fast trains before the Yale students, Professor Hadley said: "The speed of railroad trains is restricted within three theoretical limits: 1. A physical limit of eighty miles per hour, beyond which it is found impossible for a train to hold the track. 2. An operating limit of sixty miles per hour, which practical experience has found trains can not run without much damage to life. 3. A commercial limit of thirty miles per hour, at which, all things considered, it is found economical to run a train."

A good story of elephants' tracks comes from Northern Nevada. A prospector had worn out his boots, and to save his feet from being treated by the sharp rocks as they treated the boots he put his feet up in bagging. The tracks he made were of course more or less indistinct in places, and in crossing a nearly dry mud-lake his footprints appeared really formidable. A tenderfoot coincided with a scientific exploration party. Hereat there a day or two later originated the wise saying by appealing, with half an oath, and a wild call to "get your Winchesters: some lunacy has been through here with elephants' tracks right on his hands!"

Beautiful Offices.

THE HEADQUARTERS FOR THE MAINE CENTRAL OFFICERS ALMOST COMPLETED.

Sometime next month the officers of the Maine Central expect to move into their elegant new building, the apartments of which are now fast being finished by a large force of skilled carpenters, painters and plumbers. The building containing the general officers stands a few hundred feet to the southeast of the new Union depot. The new building, says the Portland Press, will be lighted with gas and electricity, heated by steam, electric bells connect all the rooms which are splendidly lighted during the day time through large sky-lights and well arranged windows. The building fronts St. John street. On entering one passes through a vestibule which opens into a broad hall that extends almost the whole length of the building.

The stairs leading to the second story and to the basement are in the rear, right hand corner of the hall. In the rear of the hall is a large toilet room. The building is finished throughout in white wood and the floors are of birch and maple. The front office on the first floor on the south side of the building will be occupied by the freight auditor and clerks and Paymaster Shaw. It has a large closet, a fire place in the main office and in Mr. Shaw's private office, and the walls and woodwork are beautifully tinted. Next to Mr. Shaw's office is Treasurer J. A. Linscott's office. It has a handsome fire place and toilet closet. The clerks of the auditing and treasury department will occupy the spacious room beyond Mr. Linscott's. Connected with this room is a fire-proof vault some twenty feet square. It also has a fire place. Auditor George W. York will occupy the office in the rear southwest corner of the first floor. His office will be a very pleasant one, well lighted, having a fire place and toilet room.

On the north side of the hall the clerks of the general freight agent will occupy the front office. Opening from this will be General Freight Agent Eaton's private office which is a beautiful apartment with toilet room, closets and fire place conveniently arranged. General Ticket Agent Boothby will occupy the office in the rear of Mr. Eaton's and it too is a fine one. Mr. Boothby's clerks will have a very spacious office next to his and the last on the north side of the first floor. Connected with it is a large fine proof vault.

In the basement under this office is another very large and elegant office that will also be used by the clerks of the general ticket agent. It has connected with it a vault some twenty feet square. All of these offices have closets and toilet rooms connected with them; fire places and beautiful tinted walls. In the basement is a large steam boiler that furnishes heat for the entire building. The basement is a very large and fine one.

The hall on the second floor is about 90x15 feet and it is lighted by two immense sky lights. Opening from the west end is a spacious toilet room. President Sewall will occupy the office in the front south side of the second floor. Next to his is the directors' room, then comes the blue print room, next to it is the draughting room, the lightest and one of the pleasantest offices in the building, and the rear southeast corner office will be occupied by Chief Engineer Allen. Mr. Sewall's offices will be a very handsome and convenient one. It is connected with all the other offices by electric bells, and has as do all the other offices on this floor, a cozy fire place and toilet room. The front office on the north side of the hall will be occupied by General Manager Tucker. His clerks will occupy offices next to his. Then comes the Train Despatcher Hall's office and the rear office on this side of the hall will be used as the telegraph office. There is a very large fire proof vault on this floor directly over the vault on the first floor. Mr. Tucker's office will be similar to Mr. Sewall's offices. When this new building is occupied the old one on Commercial street will be vacated.

Does it pay to use commercial fertilizers? we often hear the question asked.

Mr. H. W. Brown, of Newburgh, says, one man will say no, and the next one will say yes, but you will notice in most every instance that the one that says no measures it out in a spoon, as though he was afraid of it, and the one who says yes measures it with the hand, and is not afraid to take up what the hand will hold, either.

Most of the fertilizers now in the market are good, and are a great stimulant to plant growth. A spoonful will be felt a little by the plant, and by the use of a handful, very much more, like other stimulants. As the Indian said: "One glass whisky make big Indian; two glass make very big Indian." I have used commercial fertilizers to some extent the past few years, and am satisfied that it pays me well to use it. For growing beans I consider it good.

I planted one-third of an acre and used two hundred and fifty pounds of fertiliser in the hill or drill, as I planted three feet between rows and eight to ten inches between hills, with two or three beans in a hill (the kind planted was the very small pea or rice bean); the ground was completely covered with foliage and I harvested eleven bushels of very nice beans. I sold ten bushels of them for $30, or nearly enough to pay for one ton of the guano. I also used one-half ton on a little less than two acres of oats; the ground was very poor, had been in grass for a long time, and was badly run out. I plowed in the fall, and in the spring after giving the ground a thorough pulverizing, sowed oats and the guano and harrowed all in at the same time; do not be afraid of harrowing too much. I then sowed grass seed and went over with a bush. I got a very heavy growth of straw and eighty-one bushels of oats, machine measure, and the next year I got from the piece six double sacks of very nice hay.

MONDAY, APRIL 1, 1889.

The Senate's Assault Upon the Liberty of the Press.

The rejection of the nomination of Murat Halstead for Minister to Germany marks the culmination of the apparently growing tendency of the United States Senate to set itself above all the limitations that control other branches of the Government, and to assume to all matters to be a law unto itself. In this particular case, moreover, Senatorial intolerance has taken the form of the most direct, open and dangerous assault ever made in this country upon the liberty of the press.

So far as the proceedings in this case have found their way into print—and the newspapers almost invariably get at very accurate reports of the substance of what occurs in executive sessions—the rejection of the nomination of Mr. Halstead has been due solely to the resentment of Senators on account of criticisms of that body and its members by the great newspaper—the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette—of which he is the editor. In other words the Senate issues in effect its proclamation that any man who dares to speak or write critically or disparagingly of a Senator or of the Senate's action as a body, is liable to be prohibited by them from holding any important position of trust under the United States Government at home or abroad.

In addition to the old fashioned requirements of honesty and capability a new test of eligibility for office is to be applied by polling the Senate to ascertain whether the person nominated by the President has ever dared to differ with, or question the infallible wisdom of any member or members of that exalted branch of the National legislature.

It is an advertisement to the newspapers of the country that no editor who has the hardihood to disagree with a Senator or to express disapproval of the action of that body can hope to fill any important office the appointment to which requires Senatorial confirmation.

No threat at the exponents of public opinion could be more defiant, and no blow at free discussion of men and measures under a free government could be more obviously arrogant.

Even if the criticisms of Mr. Halstead to which Senators object had been more severe, and if they had been entirely unjust, the personal indignation of Senators would furnish no adequate reason for rejecting a nomination otherwise unobjectionable. But in Mr. Halstead's case, whatever opinion may be held as to the specific language of his criticisms, no decent man in America can doubt that he was fully justified in denouncing the refusal of the Senate to investigate the charges of shameless corruption by which it was alleged that Henry B. Payne obtained his seat. The charges of frauds in that election were specific, notorious and shocking to every sense of right, and while the great State of Ohio was ringing with indignant demand, that the Senate investigate the case before admitting the claimant, Mr. Halstead and his paper would have been recreant in the most abject degree if they had failed to voice the expectation and the protest of the people.

It is not possible or necessary to analyze the reasons that governed the action of the Republican Senators who united with the Democrats in smothering the investigation of Payne's right to the seat. Everybody who was in Washington knows how the blandishments of social life, the influence of family connections, the appeals of personal friendship and the almost unlimited resources of the Standard Oil business connections, were brought to bear in every possible way to stave off the inquiry. Doubtless Mr. Halstead may have imputed motives erroneously in some cases where Senators were swayed unconsciously by the subtle and unsuspected influences around them until they were so far committed that criticism rendered them obstinate.

We believe that Senator Logan's course in that matter was the greatest mistake of his political life, but we are convinced that his kindness of heart was wrought upon to get him committed against investigation and that the strictures made upon him were used adroitly to confirm him in the position he had taken.

But without going into the motives of individuals, it is enough to say that the public mind was and is saturated with the conviction that the so-called election of Payne was so tainted with specific allegations of fraud that the Senate failed in its duty to itself and the public when it refused to investigate charges of so serious a character. If the Senate by a majority vote now arraigns Murat Halstead for criticising that refusal to investigate, it arraigns at the same time the intelligent public sentiment of the country at large.

If it is the character of the language used, rather than the fact of criticism, to which the Senate objects, it is pertinent to remark that members of that body, Republican and Democratic, have acquired reputations for violence of invective and extravagance of denunciation of men and things they disliked, that have hardly found a parallel in the columns of the most ardent partisan newspapers.

It is also a significant feature of this proceeding that Senator Payne, who was dumb when every instinct of pride must have impelled him to demand investigation of the charges concerning his election, found his tongue in executive session to express a wish that Murat Halstead, who has so fearlessly exposed Democratic fraud in Ohio, should be sent for life to Siberia.

While Mr. Halstead's editorials may have been more vehement in expression, they could not have been more scathing in spirit than the powerful and eloquent appeal of our own Senator Frye to the Ohio Senator to demand investigation, but to which that Senator made no word or sign of response. No one who listened to Mr. Frye's masterly analysis of the frightful array of charges of bribery will soon forget the silence that fell on the Senate Chamber when he turned to the Ohio Senator with these words:

> I believe in the history of the United States there never has been but one case before where a charge affecting the personal character of a Senator or his right to his seat has been made, that he had not himself temporarily demanded that the charge should be investigated and that the truth should be known—and yet here, with Ones piled upon Pelion, investigation upon investigation, denunciation upon denunciation, resolution upon resolution, the Senator from Ohio has not demanded investigation, but on the contrary, his party friends in this house, have insisted that no investigation shall be had.
> I say, sir, with pain in my heart, that there is nothing in this whole transaction that has touched in the remotest degree, my respect for and my confidence in the Senator from Ohio except this silence under these charges. How any man could come here with a charge declaring that he was in the United States Senate in a seat bought with money, could content himself to sit an hour on that seat without demanding an investigation, is beyond my comprehension; and I say that there is no Senator within my knowledge, on that side or on this side, who under the same circumstances could hold his seat in silence and retain my unshaken confidence.
> But, sir, in my opinion the United States Senate will be derelict in duty; will fall infinitely below its proper place in the Republic, if under these statements it fails to make inquiry further into this alleged corruption.

But beyond all the personal aspects of this case there stands out the new menace of the Senate's assumption of superiority to criticism and of dictatorial power. Public opinion has already grown sensitive to the increasing disposition to regard great wealth as essential to successful aspiration to seats in that body, and while there are still enough men of moderate means and due abilities in the Senate to somewhat lessen the force of the complaint, the tendency of obvious and increasing numbers of plutocrats to monopolize seats is causing more and more disquietude and dissatisfaction.

That feeling can only be increased by the development of a purpose on the part of the Senate to hold itself and its actions as exempt from public criticism, and to visit such criticism by punishment, reaching to exclusion from places of honor and trust under the Government—a disability from which even the late friend and chemist of the Union have been relieved.

We are very glad that a large majority of the Republican members were opposed to the course adopted. We do not know what course President Harrison will deem it wise to pursue in this case so unnecessarily precipitated upon him by the Senate, but we sincerely believe that he can do no greater or more lasting service to the principles of popular government than by refusing to give anything like sanction or recognition to this assault upon the liberty of the press by the attempt to proscribe one of the ablest journalists of the age solely because he has exercised a freeman's privilege of discussing and criticising the actions of a branch of the United States Government directly affecting the rights and interests of his own State and of the people of this whole country.

An Improbable Yarn.

RICHMOND, Va., March 20, 1889. Mrs. Stonewall Jackson was recently offered the place of postmaster at Lexington, Va., but she declined it, expressing her thanks, but saying that she did not possess the requisite qualifications for the office. The correspondence with Mrs. Jackson, conducted through a personal friend, was at the request of a prominent Virginia Republican, who, it is believed, stands in high favor at Washington. He said he spoke for both President Harrison and Mr. Wanamaker. In this movement they desired to express their high appreciation of the noble wife of a great confederate, and to so doing give evidence of their fraternal feeling for the confederate soldiers.

The source of the above gushing despatch casts suspicion upon it, and it is highly improbable that there has been any such tendering to the rebel sympathizing spirit still lapsitalvia in Virginia. In the first place post-offices are not usually thrust at persons unasked, but the wishes of the people are consulted in such matters. And if the Republican administration should be disposed to use post-office appointments to signalize public sympathy with the widows of men who have deserved the grateful remembrance of their country, we think President Harrison and his Postmaster General will be very much more likely to pay such a tribute of sympathy to the widow of such a man as John M. Clayton, murdered by Arkansas rebels while exposing Southern ballot frauds, than to the noble wife of a great Confederate who died while fighting to destroy popular government in the interest of a Slaveholders' Rebellion.

Hon. George B. Loring, of Massachusetts, appointed Minister to Portugal, would ably fill even a higher mission than that, and his accomplished wife will be a most agreeable acquisition for the society of Lisbon.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles, caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After trying several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more wonderful results.

Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyson, of Fernandina, Fla., recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continued it for a year. For two months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 156 Chamberlain st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and bowels increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared, and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

COMMERCIAL UNION.

Speech of Hon. Erastus Wiman in Portland.

A Rose Colored Picture of What May Be.

PORTLAND, March 30. The Portland Board of Trade had a banquet at the Falmouth Hotel, in honor of Hon. Erastus Wiman, of New York. There was a great number present, nearly two hundred. Vice President J. S. Winslow occupied the head of the table, with Mr. Wiman on his right hand. Beyond Mr. Wiman sat Hon. W. L. Putnam and near by were Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., Mayor Melcher, ex-Mayor Chapman, Judge T. H. Haskell, W. S. Cana, H. N. Jose, ex-Governor Connor, Hon. W. G. Davis, S. C. Strout and others. At right angles to this table were four long tables running the length of the spacious dining hall. These were occupied by members of the Board of Trade,

it being noticeable that there was a large representation of the younger business men of the city. After the banquet had been served Vice President Winslow called the company to order and introduced Mr. Wiman, who was received with prolonged applause. The chief points made by Mr. Wiman in his speech were that inasmuch as the greatest good to humanity had resulted from the marvellous material success of the American Republic, it was a great misfortune that a line of demarcation has been created across the center of the continent; that the barrier thus created had retarded the growth of the greater half of the continent to the north, and that by isolation and non-intercourse the political had been so fixed and determined that it was now most difficult to change. The origin and influences of the intensely loyal sentiment to British connection were explained, which sentiment it was claimed was a potent factor in the shape of a barrier to political union for at least half a century. The election of a Parliament favorable to annexation was among the remotest of possibilities; but there had grown up among the people a strong sentiment in favor of commercial union, which in time might lead to political union. The next general election to be held within three years, it was believed, would return a Parliament favorable to the resolution recently adopted by the House of Representatives, the effect of which would be that the customs line between the two countries would be obliterated. It is to permit the free admission of American manufactures to an area equal to forty per cent. of her empire, while English goods are admitted only at a rate of duty which American would regulate. But the time would come when England would have to decide whether she was willing to sacrifice the interests of five million of her subjects in Canada to the interests of ten thousand manufacturers in England. Under commercial union the iron industry of New England would be greatly benefited by cheap coal and iron from Nova Scotia. Competition from the South and West from the new iron development in those regions had made it difficult for New England to maintain her former position, because iron could not be as cheaply made in eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey from which

Her Supplies were Drawn.

In Nova Scotia there was abundant iron ore, coking coal and chemically pure limestone in immediate contiguity, and the finished product could be produced at $9 per ton which in Pittsburg cost $17. It was shown that the consumption of iron was necessarily enormous, even outside of railroad building, the figures indicating a per capita consumption as follows: Sixty-two pounds per head in 1860, 97 pounds in 1870, 163 pounds in 1880 and 218 pounds in the last fiscal year. If New England is to share in this steady growth she must have cheap iron and it was claimed that this was possible only by admitting Canadian ores, so close to her border, free.

At the close of the eloquent address the whole company rose and gave three hearty cheers.

DROWNED IN HIS CABIN.

Captain Hatch, of Islesboro, Loses His Life

By the Collision of Steamer Savannah with His Vessel.

NEW YORK, March 30. Incoming vessels continue to report unusually rough weather. Nearly every vessel arriving today bore evidence of damage, by the gale or collisions with other craft. The schooner Lester A. Lewis, Captain Hatch, from Nobile, 17 days, reports that five miles southeast of Navesink Highlands, early this morning, she was run into by the steamer City of Savannah, bound north. The schooner was struck on the port quarter, and her stern completely cut off. She was flooded with water, and Capt. Hatch was drowned while asleep in the cabin. He leaves a wife and five children in Islesboro, Maine.

THE MURPHY WEIR FIGHT.

Stopped on the Eighteen Round—Murphy has a Rib Broken.

CHICAGO, March 31. The referee declared the Weir-Murphy fight off on the eighteen round. It is to be finished sometime before Tuesday. To-night "Parson" Davies said if he could prevent it, there would be no second meeting between Weir and Murphy.

After the return to Chicago it was ascertained that one of Murphy's ribs were broken. Weir, in addition to his injured hands, has a fracture of the jaw, but not bad. "Parson" Davies says another fight within three days would be fanatical. He is willing to divide the $1,000 purse equally between the men. During intermission that if forced he will call on the police to jail the fighters and their backers.

THE TERRIBLE DISASTER

To the Naval Fleet at Samoa.

Full Details of the Hurricane and its Results.

Four American Officers and Forty-Seven Men Lost, and Ninety-One Sailors and All the Officers but One of German Ship Eber.

The Ships Tossed About Like Egg Shells and Dashed on the Reef.

The English Ship Calliope Alone Escapes to Sea.

A Chance that the Nipsic May be Saved.

WASHINGTON, March 30. The Navy Department this morning received a cable message from Admiral Kimberley, dated Auckland, March 30th, which says:

There was a hurricane at Apia, March 16. Every vessel in the harbor is on shore except the English man-of-war Calliope, which got to sea. The Trenton and Vandalia are total losses. The Nipsic was beached with her rudder gone. She may be saved but the chances are against it. They will send her to Auckland if possible. The Vandalia lost four officers and 39 men. The officers were Capt. Schoonmaker, Paymaster Arms, Lieut. of Marines Sutton, Pay Clerk John Roche. The Nipsic lost seven men. The Trenton and Vandalia crews are ashore; the Nipsic's are on board. All the stores possible were saved.

The German ships Adler and Eber are total losses; the Olga was beached and may be saved. The German losses are 96 men. It is important to send 500 men home at once.

Telegrams of Inquiry.

were received by Commodore Walker, today, from the brother of Lieut. Sutton and the wives of Captain Schoonmaker and Paymaster Arms. Suitable replies were made and a telegram was also sent Editor J. Roche, of the Boston Pilot, informing him of the death of his brother.

Lieut. Edward E. Haydn, retired, in charge of the Meteorological Division of the Hydrographic Office, and regarded as authority on the subject of marine storms, says cyclonic storms are a feature of the South Pacific region. They have a motion exactly the reverse of those occuring in the northern hemisphere, but with otherwise about the same characteristics. Their path is parabolic and they occur several times a year in some years. It happens that two or three seasons go by without a storm. Experienced seamen can detect the approach of such storms in the West Indies, but the same rule might not hold good in the Pacific waters.

Despatch from Minister Pendleton.

The following telegram was received at the Department of State this afternoon from Berlin:

"The Foreign Office has been officially informed that in a typhoon at Apia the Eber and Adler were totally lost and that ninety sailors are dead. The Olga stranded with no losses. Three American men-of-war and all the merchant vessels in port are lost. Sixty Americans are drowned. An English war ship was damaged and has gone to Sydney.

(Signed) PENDLETON."

Admiral Kimberly's despatch is taken to indicate that he had already mailed an account of the wreck. By sharp work it may have been possible for him to have caught the mail steamer which arrives at San Francisco April 13th, next, in which case full advices may be expected at Washington about April 20th.

It appears that the

Rainy Season Set In

this year at Samoa with severity and rather early. February 14th, just about a month before the fatal hurricane which swept away the naval vessels, a heavy gale descended on the harbor and wrecked several merchant vessels, including American barkentine Constitution, whose crew was saved by a boat from the Nipsic. February 25th, Captain Mullane, of the Nipsic, who, from his long stay at Apia, probably knew more about the characteristics of Samoa weather than the commanders of the other American vessels, wrote to his brother here as follows: "We are now in the midst of the hurricane season, and until April 15th may look for heavy weather. The harbor is small with reefs outside and inside, bad, holding ground. There is no coal here and nothing to eat. Everything is very dear."

By the Destruction of the American fleet at Apia the Navy Department finds itself confronted with a serious problem. Short of the China station, where there is a small fleet of old wooden vessels, at least one of which can never hope to successfully cross the Pacific, there are almost no American war vessels worthy of the name in the Pacific Ocean which can be sent immediately to Samoa. It will not be a wise policy to allow events there to drift along without the presence of one or more American naval vessels. The hostile armed factions on the islands are no longer under the restraining influences of men-of-war representing any civilized nation, and property rights, at least, might be insecure even if life is not in jeopardy. The Monongahela, an old store ship,

Carrying a Couple of howitzers, sailed with stores for Simon from Mare Island, Feb. 21st, and should arrive in a week or two unless she encounters bad weather. The Dolphin despatch boat, which left Honolulu through the possession of one of the great gun might be ordered from Callao or the old Monitor, now at Panama, might be sent to Samoa, but this about completes the list of available ships and none would be worthy to represent the authority of the United States. By dint of extra work the Charleston, now building at San Francisco, might be gotten ready to sail in about three weeks, but the fatterles will not be completed and the government will be at great expense as the contractors would probably insist upon a remission of the penalties already accrued for delay in the construction of the vessel as a condition precedent to accelerated work.

The Disaster in Apia Harbor is the severest so far as the destruction of vessels is concerned, that the navy has yet experienced by storm at sea. There have been instances, however, where larger numbers of lives were lost. The most notable of these naval disasters was the sinking of the Albany, off the West Indies, in 1853. Neither the vessel nor the 200 persons on board were ever heard of. In 1863 a coop of war Levant went down in the Pacific and was never heard from. Not one of the officers and crew of 200 were ever found. The Monongahela was washed ashore at Santa Cruz by a tidal wave in 1887, and Landed on Top of Some Houses.

She was finally launched and raised and is now in use. In 1853, brig Porpoise, with 100 on board, went down in the China seas without leaving a trace. In 1863, brig Baltimore met a cyclone off Hatteras. A colored cook, picked up a day or two afterwards on a bit of wreckage, told the story of the loss of every one of his shipmates. In 1868 a great tidal wave picked up ship Wateree, in the harbor of Arica, Peru, and carried her seven or eight miles inland, depositing her in a tropical forest, where she Rested her days as a Hotel.

The same tidal wave caught storeship Fredonia at anchor, rolled her over and sank her instantly, with every soul on board. The Saginaw was cast away in the night upon one of the islands of the Pacific, about fifteen years ago. The wreck of the Huron, although it occurred thirteen years ago, is still fresh in the minds of people on the coast. The ship was wrecked upon Carrituck Beach, N. C., and few of the crew escaped to tell the story of heavy weather and false beacon lights. Roslyn, now Lieutenant Lucas Young, was the only man on board who was saved.

Will Not be Immediately Replaced.

Commodore Walker, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, said this evening that the Department would, for the present, make no effort to replace the wrecked ships with other vessels of the navy at present. If German Government is about to apply a as the United States in respect to protection at Apia, and until Admiral Kimberly's report is received nothing will be done.

A Detailed Account.

LONDON, March 31. Further particulars of the disaster by the storm at Apia have just been received. The hurricane burst upon the harbor suddenly. The German man-of-war Eber was the first vessel to drag her anchors. She became unmanageable and was driven helplessly on the reef which runs around the harbor. She struck broadside on, at six o'clock in the morning. The shock caused her to lurch and to stagger back and she sank in a moment in deep water. Most of the men were under the hatches and scarcely a soul escaped. German warship Adler was next to succumb. She was lifted bodily by a gigantic wave and cast on her beam ends on the reef. A terrible struggle for life ensued among the officers and sailors aboard. Many plunged into the raging surf and struck out, some reaching the shore in safety. Others clung to the rigging until the masts fell. Of the latter two gained the shore safely. The captain of the Adler and several

Other Officers were Saved

In the meantime United States steamer Nipsic had been dragging her anchors and drifting toward the shore. The Captain, however, managed to keep control and ran her on a sand back. Boats were immediately lowered and the whole company were saved, with the exception of six men, who were drowned by the capsizing of a boat. United States steamer Vandalia was carried before the gale right upon the reef; she struck with a terrible shock and the captain was hurled against a gatling gun and stunned. Before he could recover a great sea swept the deck and washed him away. The vessel sank fifty yards from the Nipsic. Several of the officers and men were washed overboard and drowned. Others perished while making desperate efforts to swim to the shore. Some remained for hours clinging to the rigging, but unceasingly over them and one by one they were swept away. By this time night had set in. Many natives and Europeans gathered on the shore, all anxious to render assistance to the wrecked vessels and unfortunate crews; but, darkness having fallen on the scene, they were wholly unable to be of service. Soon after the Vandalia had sunk the American war ship Trenton broke from her anchorage and was driven upon the wreck of the Vandalia, whence she drifted to the shore. The bottom of the Trenton was completely stove and her hold half full of water. As morning broke German man-of-war Olga, which had hitherto bravely withstood the gale, although much battered by the heavy seas that constantly broke upon her, became unmanageable and was driven upon the beach, where she lay in a tolerably favorable position. Following is the record of

Officers and Men Lost:

Eber—The captain and all other officers except one, and seventy-six men.

Vandalia—Captain, four officers and forty men.

Nipsic—Seven men.

Alder—Altogether fifteen persons.

Mataafa sent a number of men who rendered splendid aid in trying to float the Olga.

HALSTEAD'S NOMINATION REJECTED.

For the Post of Minister to Germany.

The Senate Refuses to Reconsider Its Vote.

WASHINGTON, March 30. The executive session of the Senate lasted two hours this afternoon, being devoted almost exclusively to the case of Murat Halstead, nominated for Minister to Germany. Messrs. Sherman, Hawley and Blair spoke in favor of confirmation. At the close of their remarks a vote was taken on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the nomination was rejected, on Thursday. The motion was lost, 25 to 19, Messrs. Evarts, Ingalls, Plumb and Teller voting with the Democrats in the negative, and Messrs. Blackburne and Call with the Republicans in the affirmative. The Republicans then explained their votes on the roll-call, saying they had no personal feeling in the matter, and no antagonism against Mr. Halstead, but thought it right to defend the Senate against such attacks as have been made upon its character by him in his paper.

A Show at the Liberty of the Press.

Gen. H. V. Boynton, Washington correspondent of the Commercial Gazette received the following telegram this evening:

BANGOR, Me., March 30. Mr. Boutelle has just sent the following telegram to the President: "In rejecting Murat Halstead's nomination for the reasons stated the Senate has struck one of the most desperate blows ever aimed at the liberty of the press. I hope you will resist it with all your power."

Henry Watterson Denounces the Action.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 30. The Courier-Journal to-morrow will contain an article by Henry Watterson on the rejection by the Senate of the nomination of Murat Halstead as Minister to Germany. It says: "The action carries with it primarily a warning from the Senate of the United States to the press of the country to look to its utterances when dealing with that body or any of its members. Mr. Halstead's offence to Republicans lay in his criticism of certain Senators who had refused to enter upon an investigation into the election of Senator Payne, asked by the Republican Legislature of Ohio. No intelligent Democrat doubts that it was, first to last, a most corrupt affair. Mr. Halstead did what any other brave and honest journalist would have done and should have done under the circumstances."

The article concludes as follows: "We have it from very high authority that if the name of Governor Foraker is not sent to the Senate before adjournment the Governor will be despatched as Minister to Germany very soon thereafter. If this be so, the Democrats of the Senate will have helped malignant Republicans of that body to wreck private revenge on Mr. Halstead only to saddle a man like Governor Foraker, who, in his hatred of the South, double discounts any other Republican in the country, on our diplomatic service. On that issue we have the impression that gentlemen will find it as little easy to satisfy their own consciences as to explain themselves to public opinion which in the end is tolerably just in these matters and will not give approval to the conversion of the Senate into a den of assassins."

Murat Halstead Ill with Erysipelas.

CINCINNATI, March 30. Murat Halstead has had the misfortune, since being nominated as Minister to Germany to fall a victim of erysipelas which confines him to his room and incapacitates him for business. Mr. Halstead is better to-night, but the nature of his complaint, A recurrence of erysipelas, from which he suffered two months ago, makes this case grave, not from the disease itself, but from fear of possible complication which sometimes accompany it. He sees no papers, letters or telegrams, and is taking absolute rest. His attending physician this evening said that he was better and no alarm is felt by the members of his family. He sees no callers and has no statement to make regarding his case now pending in the Senate.

Cough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known, as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in returns of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hopler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Bonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pain in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

A DYNAMITE STORY.

The friend didn't mention this to any but ten of his most intimate friends, and as they were equally secretive it did not take long to set every man on 'change to slyly watching Obed Jennes. They naturally supposed that Clyburne referred to things financial, not matrimonial.

Bertha visited Daisy quite often about that time, and Mr. Clyburne lost no chance of publicly insisting that Bertha must send for her "things" and remain the rest of the week with Daisy.

One morning, during a visit, a servant came to Mr. Clyburne as he sat at breakfast and tremblingly said:

"Miss Clyburne, sah, Miss Daisy ain't in her room, sah!"

"No! Gone for a walk, I suppose."

"I—I'a feared not, sah, Ar'—an' Miss Bertha done gone, too."

"They'll probably be here soon. Keep some coffee hot for them."

"B—but, sah, Mary she say as how de beds ain't been slep in."

"Neither of them?" asked Mr. Clyburne, a little anxious.

"N—no, sah; an' yur's a note Mary foun' in Miss Daisy's room," added the man, handing a tiny envelope to his master, but standing as far from him as the width of the silver salver and the extent of his long arm would permit.

Mr. Clyburne opened the note calmly; he suspected that he knew what was in it; he merely glanced at the first lines:

"DARLING PAPA—This is to tell you that Mr. Palmer is about to ask me, your advice; Bertha and I are to meet him at Dr. ——'s at 11 o'clock to-night, for we think it best to have a friendly witness to such a matter."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed he heartily, to the surprise and delight of the alarmed servant. "I understand it now. Miss Daisy, will be home pretty soon, but it is not necessary to give any hint of this little affair to your mistress. She has a severe headache and it will only worry her. Send Mary here."

Mary quickly appeared, for Silas Clyburne was a terror to evil doers, and she, too, was cautioned to silence and her fears all allayed.

Silent! Yes truly they would be very silent, especially when each of them received a $50 bill with the remark: "I'll give you as much more if you will ever again bring me such good news!"

"And now," said he to himself, as he was on his way down town, "how best to break the news to my dear friend Obed Balfint hat! How he will rage and fume! Wonder what I'd best say. Guess I'll just hand him Daisy's note to me and watch his face while he reads it. By the way, I haven't read it all myself."

Drawing the note from his pocket he began to read: "At Dr. ——'s, um, I've read that, um, um, such a good, and who can be a better one than a cousin? Bertha goes home to-night. Oh, I—well then the fun is over. But what is this? 'I go with my husband.' Why, why, what—You loving daughter, soon to be Daisy Palmer!" Am I crazy?

No, he was not crazy. In his greed to work a mischief to his enemy he had not allowed his daughter to explain that it was she, not Bertha, with whom Osborne Palmer was in love. He jumped to the conclusion that she was referring to Bertha all the time, and, lo! he had done as the wicked often do; he had himself fallen into the pit that he had so carefully digged for another.

"If I am fooled old Obed shall not know it; I'll not give him that satisfaction," was his decision.

But, though he put a brave face on the matter, no one was deceived, and he knew it. They whispered to one another and wondered "where is the little game he was to play on his enemy?"

Of course Daisy's husband, in Daisy's eyes, is far too precious to risk his life in opening any more of papa's possible bombs, so Mr. Clyburne is again in search of such a deputy.—New York Graphic.

"Let Her Go, Gallagher."

A correspondent in Lexington, Ky., wants to know about "Let her go, Gallagher." This phrase never became as popular as "Paint the town red," although last year it had some currency. There are forty-nine different explanations about how it started. One is that there was a young baseball pitcher named Gallagher, on the Pacific coast, who was much admired by the boys, and whenever he stood up to pitch they used to shout the phrase. But as the inquiry comes from the south, perhaps the writer would like a southern version. Here it is: "Squire Bob Stevens is the genial and big hearted manager of the city of Montgomery. A colored policeman having indulged in very inflamed language toward another of an equally slight shade of complexion, the aggrieved one had her arrested and arraigned for trial before the squire. One of the numerous witnesses was very severe in her testimony against the accused, saying, among other things, that she used 'talk that an lady can 'spress.' This so aggravated the defendant that she went for witness regardless of surroundings. Tom Gallagher, the squire's bailiff, tried to stop the wool pulling that ensued, and caught hold of the defendant's arm, when the squire, who likes to see fair play, and withal enjoys a good thing, shouted: 'Let her go, Gallagher.'"—Detroit Free Press.

The Prince of Wales' Sons.

For so pretty a woman the Princess of Wales has the ugliest daughters and one of the stupidest sons imaginable. The eldest son of the prince—the one commonly known as "Cuffs and Collars," because his fancy for excessively high collars and the admiration for that remarkable section known as shooting his cuffs—is as stupid as he is ugly. The second son, Prince George, is most delightful and a great favorite among the English people. Very early in life he displayed his independent spirit. One day the royal family were at dinner, and the children were brought in at dessert. Prince George was then in petticoats. After they had been made much of for a while they were taken out, but suddenly the nurse returned to say Prince George was missing; he couldn't be found anywhere. It was suggested that they should look under the table, and from out of it, at this hint, walked his small royal highness, totally divested of his clothing, his face smeared with some fruit from stolen tarts, and about him that air of conquest only possible to a baby boy. To him is credited the advice given to his stupid brother, when it was necessary for him to fill up the time, that he should "go into a corner, and whistle. God save your grandmother."—Philadelphia Times.

A Physician's Object Lesson.

A doctor, prescribing for a baby, was sadly vexed by the officiousness of the child's female relatives, who tried all sorts of home remedies for it, saying in empirics:

"We thought if they did no good, they would do no harm, doctor."

At the end of his patience, the doctor one morning called for a bowl, a spoon and some fresh butter, and began stirring the latter round and round, with an air of grave importance. The ladies gathered about him inquisitively, but he gave them no attention until at last, curiosity becoming rampant, they cried in chorus:

"Oh, doctor, do tell us what you are going to do with the butter?"

Here was his chance. Facing them solemnly, he said:

"I am going to grease the baby's elbow with it. It may not do any good, but it won't do any harm!"—London Tid Bits.

Explanation Did Not Help.

A Waterbury business man witnessed a funny scene on a Naugatuck train. He was seated in a corner when a man came in and took a seat three pews in front of him, depositing his grip to the seat by his side. Soon after the man left his grip in the seat alone and went forward to enjoy a cigar in the smoking car. At the next station man No. 8 came in and sat down by the lonesome grip sack, man No. 4 taking a seat next in the rear. At the next station the man by the grip left the car, and No. 4, seeing the grip for the first time, supposed it belonged to No. 8, and he at once raised a window and threw the grip out at him, yelling: "Here, you! Here's your baggage," and away the car hurried before the Waterbury onlooker had time to stop the fun. When the owner of the grip sauntered back to his seat from the smoker and could not find his baggage, the explanation of the affair made the incident rather aggravating.—Waterbury American.

Hailed by Women All His Life.

Here is a pretty compliment to "our mothers, our wives and daughters," and the general sentiment of all men will be to approve it as correct: "Rev. Dr. Benjamin Akerly, the venerable Episcopalian minister of Oakland, Cal., said the other evening to a pretty young lady from New York: 'In looking over my career I find that I have been ruled by a woman all my life. When I was a boy my mother ruled me; when I got married I had to do as my wife wished, and now I find that I am not independent of my daughter's commands.'

"'And yet you seem to have survived pretty well under their tyrannical sway,' remarked the young lady.

"'Indeed I have,' said Dr. Akerly, 'and were I to confess I should say that had I always followed their sound advice I should have made fewer mistakes in life.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Grim Reminiscence at a Wedding.

One of the most terrible, as it is also one of the most thrilling tales that history has to tell, is recalled by the announcement in the Scottish papers of Miss Edith Brydon's marriage in Inverness cathedral. This lady's father was the famous Dr. Brydon, of the Afghan massacre of January, 1842—the sole survivor who, wounded and faint and weary after a most perilous ride, reached Jallalabad to tell Gen. Sale the piteous story of what had taken place in Khyber Pass. They were 16,000—or, counting women and children, 20,000—who set out from Cabul on that ill-starred journey; and he was the only man who had escaped. Between the dark crags of Jegrullak the murderous Afghans had their fill of blood. The death trap ran with the gore of soldiers, camp followers, women and children alike. Dr. Brydon alone escaped.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Missing Link.

He crawled around upon the floor,
While in both hands he held a cuff.
He tore his hair and stamped and swore,
And then he stopped; he'd had enough.
And to himself he mused—mused he:
"I am like Darwin now, I think.
I've looked both long and carefully,
But failed to find the missing link."
—Clothier and Furnisher.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA LABORATORY.

The formula for Dana's Sarsaparilla has been used in private practice for years with such gratifying results that the proprietors were at last induced to give it to the public as a remedy of undoubted merit. Less than two years ago Kilgore & Wilson placed this preparation upon the market, relying upon its merits for its sale. Its success has been truly wonderful. From a small amount of advertising, in a few towns and counties, the demand for this medicine has steadily increased, until its present quarters are too small for its manufacture. Large numbers of testimonials are constantly received from the leading people of Belfast and vicinity. Last year they sold 7,000 bottles. Mr. E. H. Hanson recently bought an interest in the medicine, and an effort is to be made to extend its sale by judicious advertising. Mr. Hanson's carriage repository, on Bridge street, has been converted into a laboratory and this medicine will be manufactured there.

Last week a Journal representative was shown over the new establishment by Mr. Hanson. The building is 40 by 70 feet, three stories high. For the present but two floors will be occupied. Entering the building from a side door on Bridge street you are on the second floor, the first floor being a basement. At the right as you enter is the packing room 20 by 45 feet. Here the medicine will be packed in boxes ready for shipment, after it comes from the bottling department. The bottling room, on the same floor, 20 by 70 feet, will be furnished with an automatic bottling machine such as is used in the great establishments of J. C. Ayer and C. I. Hood. Six bottles are filled instantly. The office, 15 by 20 feet, is at the left of the hallway and is fitted with every convenience. The manufacturing room is on the floor above and is 20 by 35 feet. Here is the steam boiler, where the ingredients are compounded and manufactured. When the medicine is made it goes to large white oak tanks on the same floor. Immediately above the bottling room, and pipes carry the compound from the tanks to the bottling machine below. They begin to manufacture next week and will start with a crew of five, a foreman and four women. Two hundred thousand circulars have been printed, and agents are now on the road circulating them. These circulars contain testimonials mostly from well known home people, who are entitled to the greatest credit. These people can be seen daily upon the streets or at their places of business, and would be perfectly willing to corroborate the truths of their testimonials.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS

I have two little girls—the two and the other four years of age. They were both very badly afflicted with eruptions on the face and neck. Sometimes when they would strike the sores against anything they would bleed as long as ten minutes; they were in fact so painful that we had to tie up the hands of the younger with soft cloths to prevent her from scratching off the scabs. They suffered in this way for about eight months, during which time we tried several remedies without any relief. Seeing Swift's Specific was recommended highly, I decided all other remedies and bought one bottle for it, and gave it to the children, and it cured both soldand well, and they are now entirely free from any sort of trouble. There is nothing so good for the blood and skin troubles as S. S. S.

Hark, the sound of many voices
Jubilant in gladest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Favorite Prescription,
How the happy voices blend!
"Wonderful beyond description—
Woman's best and true friend."

Well may it be called woman's best friend, since it does for her what no other remedy has been able to do. It cures all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to females. Cures them, understand. Other preparations may afford temporary relief, but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription effects a PERMANENT CURE. It is GUARANTEED to do this, or the money paid for it will be promptly refunded. It is the great remedy of the age.

Peculiar

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown. Hood's Sarsaparilla and has won for Sarsaparilla itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of Peculiar preparation sides abroad never attained so rapidly nor held so steadfastly the confidence of all classes of people. COMPOUND OXYGEN TREATMENT.

The Compound Oxygen Gas is drawn directly with out heating or vaporization, from the IRON OXYLIN TANK (which holds 50 gallons) and is taken by inhalation. It is easy and delightful to take, and the immediate action is one of restful exhilaration.

The "Compound Oxygen Treatment" vitalizes the whole system, and in this it is the secret of its strange power over certain local diseases. Trial treatment at office free. Look into the matter for yourself.

BANGOR, March 12, 1879.

Mr. SWEETSER, Dear Sir:—

I most heartily recommend your "COMPOUND OXYGEN" for throat and lung troubles. I have tried various remedies for bronchial troubles, but received no permanent benefit until I used your "COMPOUND OXYGEN."

It gives me pleasure also to recommend it to persons who may be suffering from nervous disorders, and I sincerely hope many who need it may be induced to try it.

Very Respectfully,

MARY C. JORDAN.

Bangor, Maine, March 16th, 1886.

STATE OF MAINE.

PENOBSCOT, ss. County Commissioners' Office, January 6, A. D. 1886.

Upon the foregoing Petition, it is considered by the Commissioners that the petitioners are responsible, and that they ought to be heard touching the matter set forth in their Petition, and therefore order, that the County Commissioners meet at Mark Thompson's in Venzie, in Penobscot County, on Thursday, the third day of April, A. D. 1886, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and thence proceed to view the route mentioned in said Petition, immediately after which a view hearing of parties and witnesses will be had at some convenient place in the vicinity, and such further measures taken in the premises as the Commissioners shall deem proper. And it is further ordered, that notice of the time, place and purpose of the Commissioners' meeting aforesaid, be given to all persons and corporations interested, by serving an attested copy of the Petition and this Order thereon, upon the Clerk of the town of Venzie, in said County, and by posting up attested copies as aforesaid, in three public places in said town, (Clerk) days at least before the time appointed for such view, and also by publishing the Petition and Order thereon, three weeks successively in the Bangor Daily Whig & Courier, a newspaper published in Bangor, in said County, the first publication to be thirty days at least before the time of said view. That all persons and corporations interested may attend and be heard if they think fit.

Attest, CHAS. F. SWEET, Clerk.

A true copy of the Petition and Order thereon.

Attest, CHAS. F. SWEET, Clerk.
